Biographical/Historical Sketch
On October 31, 1977, the Century III Steering Committee was established by Mayor Richard H. Fulton's Executive Order No. 19. The Century III Commission was established by the Metropolitan Council by Ordinance No. 77-775 on February 15, 1978, to serve as an advisory body to the Steering Committee. At least 200 individuals were to serve a three-year term on the Commission, with each member of the Metropolitan Council submitting three names for membership on the Commission. A number of subcommittees were established, including: All-Faith; Birthday; Calendar; Century III Center; Communications; Festivals; Finance; Historical Records; Parade; Project Screening; Souvenirs; Special Projects; Union Station; and Salutes.

The Century III Celebration began on Founders Day, December 23, 1979, with a symbolic river crossing to commemorate the journey of James Robertson and his band of settlers who walked across the frozen Cumberland River in 1779. During 1980, numerous events commemorated the founding of Nashville, including a parade on Settlement Day, April 24; a variety of Birthday Week activities in late April, including an All-Faith Service, Graduation to Century III, the Century III Steam Special, and other events; Celebration of the Arts in June at Centennial Park; and commemorative events for the year concluded with Prayers for the Future on December 21, 1980. A detailed account of the entire range of Century III activities can be found in the Commission’s published Final Report.
